U.S. Army Human Resources Command
relocates to Fort Knox June-September 2010

Alexandria, Va. — In accordance with the recommendations of the 2005 Base Realignment and Closure Commission (BRAC), U.S. Army Human Resources Command (HRC) is relocating operations from Alexandria, Va.; Indianapolis, Ind.; and St. Louis, Mo. to the new Human Resource Center of Excellence (HRCoE) at Fort Knox, Ky.

The HRCoE will be memorialized as the Lt. Gen. Timothy J. Maude Complex on May 27, 2010. Lt. Gen. Maude, a former U.S. Army Deputy Chief of Staff, Personnel, was the highest-ranking military officer killed in the September 11, 2001, attacks.

On June 16, 2010, HRC will case its colors at its current headquarters in Alexandria, Va., and uncase them June 25 at its new home. HRC's distinctive flag, or "colors," will be furled or "cased" in a protective sheath for transport to the Human Resource Center of Excellence. The casing of the colors is an Army tradition symbolizing the movement of an organization to a new area of operation.

HRC is working diligently to minimize the customer impact of the relocation to Fort Knox. Critical functions will continue smoothly as the command transitions; however, some routine services (such as records updates and branch manager accessibility) will be affected. No Department of the Army centralized selection boards will convene between July 1-Sept. 30, 2010. Customers may continue to use existing contact information until new contact information is posted on the HRC web site.

The relocation will create job opportunities in a wide variety of career fields. Learn more about job opportunities at HRC and how to apply: <https://www.hrc.army.mil/site/BRAC/index.htm>

The integration of HRC elements at Fort Knox will result in enhanced service to all Soldiers. For more information about U.S. Army Human Resources Command, visit www.hrc.army.mil
